

I was able to give enough attention to the conversation

I was easily distracted by the incoming notifications

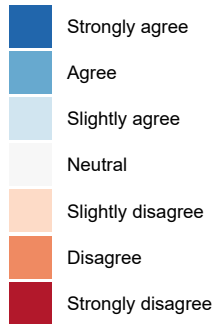

It felt wrong to have information displayed on their body

The information I got could be helpful in that moment

The person I talked to probably felt ignored

100%

50%

0%

50%

100%